WOMEN APPEAL TO NEUTRAL NATIONS

• Boston Meeting Adopts Resolutions to Urge President Wilson to Act

Resolutions urging an immediate conference of the neutral nations, to be called by President Wilson, in an effort to reach an international agreement for the cessation of hostilities at the weekly conference yesterday in Boston of the Massachusetts branch of the Woman's Peace party.

The resolutions also call on the United States and Representatives from Massachusetts to fight the "extension of armament" in this country.

These are the resolutions:

Resolved, that the Massachusetts branch of the Woman's Peace party should request the central executive committee to continue its efforts to bring peace organizations, boards of

"But a feature of the situation cannot be failing to disclose the fact of our having met the situation pluckily and with good judgment, and that business has rapidly adapted itself to the new basis and is fast adjusting itself, overcoming what may at first have seemed to have been enormous difficulties."

"This country has a tremendous supply of products which Europe needs and we are selling those products at very high prices. Business energy has found new outlets, and the result is that there are much better times in the East."

"In a word, we have enormous crops with an enormous demand at enormous prices."

"New York is much more prosperous than it was."

PLAN HOME RULE ON BOSTON POLICE

Three Bills to Transfer Appointment and Removing Power from Governor to Mayor.

An effort to place the management of the Boston Police Department in the hands of the people will be made this week.

Three separate bills seeking to secure that and have been filed with the Legislature. The bills will be heard publicly by the Committee on Cities Tuesday.

The purpose of the bills is to take from the Governor the power of appointing the Police Commissioner, a power that the present Governor does not want, and to place the power of appointment in the hands of the Mayor of Boston.

Mayor Curley is said to be in sympathy with the purpose of the bills. Senator James I. Green of Charlestown, Attorney Clarence W. Rowley and Alfred A. Moore are the petitioners for the change.

"I will argue that the city of Boston should have the management of its own police department," said Mr. Rowley, yesterday.

"I strike me that if the city of Boston pays the bills for the support of its police department, Boston should not pay for its police commissioner."

In addition to vesting the power of appointment in the Mayor, the bill filed by Senator Green, would allow the Mayor to remove the Police Commissioner or the Police Commissioner for cause.

Governor Walsh maintains that the appointment by the Governor of police is an interference with the home rule of cities and towns.

Boston and Fall River are the only two cities of the State for which the Governor appoints police and Police Commissioners.

Battle Over Referendum On Tomorrow

The first battle for the initiative and referendum will be fought tomorrow.

The hearing is assigned by the Legislative Committee on Constitutional Amendments in Room 473, State House, beginning at 10 o'clock.

This will afford the people the last opportunity to advance the cause. After tomorrow the Legislature alone will consider it.

Governor Walsh urges the initiative and referendum. He has lined up to his support.

Progressive and progressive Republicans are with him. Governor Walsh has indicated that the one deterrent factor is the fact that the Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican.

But the Governor has hopes that the one-party party has seen the error of its way.

In his inaugural address he said that the vote by the people in favor of the initiative and referendum at the last election, could not be disputed. This is what he said:

Legislators Quit to See Boxing Bout

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 13.—The West Virginia Senate and House of Delegates adjourned in order that members might witness a boxing match. The Legislature is considering the Ohio bill which provides regulations for prize fights.

PARIS, Feb. 13.—Madame Sarah Bernhardt, unable to walk because of an affection of the spine, is expected to be operated on tomorrow.

LOST ONE WHITE HORSE, RETIRED

Animal Wagon, Bound for Bright Abattoir, Loses Its Four-Legged Old Passenger.

"Happy Jack" Diamond, driving a retired animal wagon, was found last night, on its way to the bright abattoir, at the corner of North and South streets, at the corner of North and South streets, at the corner of North and South streets.

The animal wagon, bound for the bright abattoir, was found last night, on its way to the bright abattoir, at the corner of North and South streets, at the corner of North and South streets, at the corner of North and South streets.

Quitting naturally, Mr. Diamond retired the animal wagon to the corner of North and South streets, at the corner of North and South streets, at the corner of North and South streets.

"Where do you think you are," inquired the lieutenant, "in the Legionnaire's." "I am in the Legionnaire's," replied the animal wagon.

Bride Confident Coe Is Alive

Declares She and Missing Oil Salesman Never Quarreled; Their Home Was Ideal.

Miss Henry Clarke Coe, Jr., bride of less than a year of the young Standard Oil salesman who, two weeks ago, left home at his usual time in the morning and then disappeared as though the earth had swallowed him, and last night that she was sure he would be found.

Mr. Coe was at first proscribed by the shock of his husband's disappearance. For a week or more he passed sleepless nights and days of longing, but under the care of her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. A. Allan Allen, of Indiana, she has gradually recovered her strength and composure.

"For three days she has been up and about all day and has been remarkably well at night."

"I don't know where he is," he says, "but I believe it probable, and that he will be here with me before long."

GIVES BELT LINE SUBWAY PLANS

Men Big Project for Rapid

A plan for a "belt line subway" was laid before the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange by W. J. McDonald, president of No. 95 Milk street, its author. Its cost would be, it is estimated, $15,000,000.

The subway, it is suggested, should have four tracks and be electrified. It is designed to embrace all of Boston, its water front with its piers and shipping facilities and to co-ordinate with every railway system entering the city.

It is suggested that its terminal shall be located on the "cow pasture" land

The main subway, after leaving the water front, would pass under the mouth of the Charles River and after being built to the "other" terminus, along the water front of the Mystic River to Somerville and Cambridge.

The second subway would be built under the Charles River in the vicinity of Massachusetts avenue to Boston, thence to Roxbury and from there to the "other" terminus of arrival and departure.

in length, such a subway would appear to be feasible. The terminal at the north end there could be constructed on great piers and docks, adequate for the most pretentious shipping warfare. The terminal would be commodious, sturdiest, expeditious, accurate. The terminal with its unexampled equipment might leave a "free port," which means a port where concessions are made in export and imports in the interest of business.

Along the line of the subway could be located seven or more sub-depots to afford clearing houses for the vast quantities of goods which should find their way to them.

Talcott Williams
Opposes Suffrage

Dr. Talcott Williams, director of the Pulitzer Foundation School of Journalism at Columbia University, delivered an anti-suffrage address last evening at the home of Mrs. Edwin P. Atkins, chairman of the National Association of the Massachusetts Anti-Suffrage Association.

"I am here," said Dr. Williams, "for the purpose of asserting the dignity of the woman who in her home lives, in their professions and careers represent the best of American womanhood. I am speaking for those who feel it would be a great mistake to give the vote to those who, whose their instincts are against the granting of suffrage to women, are anxious to prevent it."

YALE IN FAVOR OF NUMBERING FOOTBALL MEN

Yale University is in favor of numbering its football players to improve identification on the field.

The proposal for numbering players has been met with approval from the coaching staff and fans.

This change is expected to be implemented at the start of the next season.

The numbering system will help spectators and officials keep track of individual players.

Yale's football team is looking forward to the new season with renewed interest.

The team's performance in the upcoming games will be closely watched.

Yale's victory in the recent match was a significant achievement.

The numbering system is a common practice in many professional leagues.

It will allow for easier communication between players and coaches.

The team is confident that this change will benefit the game.

The numbering system is a key element of modern football strategy.

Yale's adoption of this system sets a precedent for other universities.

The team's success in the past season has inspired them to make these changes.

The numbering system is a sign of the sport's evolution.

REVIEW OF REAL ESTATE MARKET OF LAST WEEK

Hotel Nottingham Figures in B.
Dread Activity in Bulk Buy Property.

MOORE SOUTH BOSTON SALES

The real estate market of last week was characterized by a general feeling of optimism, particularly in the South Boston area. The Hotel Nottingham, a large and modern structure, has been the subject of considerable activity, with several large-scale purchases reported. In the bulk buying market, there was a notable increase in transactions, with many investors looking for property to develop or hold for future appreciation. The South Boston sales market also showed signs of recovery, with several properties changing hands at prices that reflected the current market conditions. Overall, the week's activity suggests a steady and positive trend in the real estate market.

Buy Real Estate NOW!

There is every prospect of a renewal of real estate activity in the Spring, and never was there a time when land values looked better to investors than at present. As a safe remunerative investment, creditable selected real estate is tenanted more highly by shrewd capitalists than stocks or bonds.

It is a question how much activity will develop when the war is over and Europeans begin to acquire their holdings to pay debts. There may be steady market swings.

But real estate is now on the lowest price basis compared with actual, intrinsic values known in years. Rightly chosen it is the safest kind of property investment. Property is increasing all the time but the cash is getting no longer.

In the course of time land will go up in value because there is so little of it and there are so many people to bid it, to do business or live upon it.

If any one entertains a real estate purchase it will be better for him or her to buy at home, not on Long Island or in New Jersey. It is better to have your property where you can see it and manage it.

There are no better land bargains anywhere in the United States than can be found within a radius of ten miles of Boston City Hall. In that area a population of nearly 1,500,000, and in increasing all the time. General increment upon land has made many millions.

Look it over before you buy it. Do not buy upon circular or other reservations. Do not invest through land companies of which you have never heard. The Boston Sunday AMERICAN advises its readers to give a careful heed to these "Don't's."

Many letters come to the AMERICAN from persons who have heard of certain points which they never inspected. For these investors it would have saved their money. Recently a letter came from a reader who had bought a number of lots in New Jersey.

He had paid outright nearly $800 for some. Others he had taken on the installment plan, paying $30 monthly. He never saw this property. Now he would be glad to sell it for almost anything.

The AMERICAN has investigated many purchases where land is not worth a fraction of what promoters claimed. Buy land, but buy it in town. Investigate before you buy it and consider all advantages and prospects. Put your dollars into reality which will pay for more dollars.

The success of these banks is a source of pride for the state and is a testament to the power of co-operation.

SLIGHT DECREASE IN HUB BUILDING

Five Building Permits Less Taken 'Out Last Month Than a Year Ago

The slight decrease in the number of building permits taken out last month compared to a year ago is a reflection of the current market conditions. The market is still recovering from the effects of the war and there is a general feeling of uncertainty. However, the decrease is not significant and is expected to be temporary. The building industry is still a vital part of the economy and is expected to continue to grow in the future.

In the field of battle the passion variously developed; some feel positive delight in slaying, others are indifferent. An old soldier who had been in Waterloo informed me that to his mind there was no pleasure equal to running a man through the body, and that he could be awake at night musing on the pleasures sensations afforded him by the act.

The latest manifestation of this deposit of honey dew or manna was observed throughout Ohio and West Virginia in the Summer of 1914. In some places the deposit was on leaves and stems of plants as well as trees. One unusual thing about it was that it never came when there was a dew. Instead of the foliage being covered with moisture everything was dry except where the honey-like substance was found. The sun dried the sticky coating on the leaves it became a dull white color, but while it was wet it was transparent.

About twenty years ago, when this food was found on the leaves of trees it was declared by some to be the result of insects working on the leaves, causing a secretion to be exuded from the foliage, and others advanced the theory it was a secretion from the insects. But careful study of the phenomenon shows that both theories are wrong. It is true manna. Where it actually comes from no one has been able to determine.

It is not always pleasant to the taste, but on some occasions it has been found quite palatable, and those who have fully tested it declare it contains nothing that is more valuable than can always be said of ordinary honey collected from certain flowers.

The Eastern manna is thus described by a traveler:

It is somewhat granular in substance, and in color is of a yellowish white. It is collected there in the morning, it is hard to the touch. It is put in jars and exposed to the rays of the sun, when it melts and forms a substance not unlike honey. —

In taste it is as sweet as honey. Manna also flows in the great Arabian desert, and is said to be better than that of the great East. —

There is little difference between the Ohio manna and this of the Far East.

v. Walter R. Burton, from a raph Taken When in His "Nor-ersonality" of a Clergyman.

"Imagine the shock to all the sensibilities of the Rev. Mr. Burton, a loved and respected clergyman, when he emerged from his waking dream and was forced to face that other personality which for a month had usurped his body! A self that was strange to every one of his normal thoughts or habits—not another minister, but a most un-ministerial sailor."

different ages differ only in the view they take of the situation. Thus in Scriptural times men troubled as to their minds were considered to be possessed with devils, which the healers of those days sought, by ex-orcism, to drive out of the sufferers' bodies. The trances and the like of the Middle Ages were the same kind of maladies.

On this basis, then, let us consider some authentic cases—not fiction—which have been investigated by doctors and which have considerable resemblance to that of Mr. Burton.

There is the case of the theological student in whom a secondary personality was constantly obtruding itself. The student was in his real nature modest, refined and altogether estimable. His second self was loud and disagreeable, and carried his body in street rows, borrowed money, and got its double into no end of scandalous troubles. The acts of the latter were a blank to the student in his own right mind.

Then there was the Rev. C. Stuart Bain, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Waterloo, New York, who was arrested on the charge of setting fire to his own church. When asked to explain his act he declared

"It is difficult to comply with your request, because the lapses include a suspension of memory; and the spell, when fully developed, is a blank afterward."

Then there is the case of Miss Beauchamp—not the patient's real name—described by Dr. Morton Prince in his book "The Dissociation of a Personality."
In this case a nervous shock suddenly broke up a serious minded, industrious, educated and gentle-womanly hospital nurse, broke up her mentality into sixteen different personalities or individualities or "gentilities or egos. Of these, however, only four were pronounced, and they continued for months and years within this unfortunate lady's body.

And then there is the case of the Rev. Mr. Hanna, which is particularly instructive and enlightening with reference to the case of Mr. Burton. Though by no means resembling the latter at all points, Mr.
Hanna was treated by Professor Boris Sida, of Harvard, and Dr. S. P. Goodhart, of New York, who wrote up the case in their book "Multiple Personality."

I left the Rev. Dr. Burton convinced that his case must be numbered as genuine among these others.
He has told the truth.

I think you'll agree with me that it is the first time in fashion history that fashions have been created and made in America, of American goods and made by American hands to be exhibited in Paris, hitherto the "Mecca" of the dressmaking world. I think it shows the quality of my faith don't you? But when a thing is made in America and sold in America, it is not without the taint of all of prejudiced "importers." It is to say American silks can in no way equal those of France. The one exception is that these American-made goods are not better in the broadness with which they allow straight

The Dance Songs of Grace Darling

THE gladsome news flies everywhere, with headlines in the papers,
How Grace Darling saved the day with her singing-dancing capers.
The ball of all the Astorblitz, the season's smartest function, Began with tragic lack of "go"—in fact, was void of unction.
When lo! Miss Gracie introduced her winning combination,
Her singing-dancing novelty, her one-step-hesitation.
Behold it here, and wonder not that every dancer soon
Was tripping just like Grace, and joining in her tune.

Stripped of all local powers and technologies, the various towns to be "reborn" through the construction of a new State are expected to be able to provide a "new look" if at all possible, by the year 2020. The new towns are for the moment a projection of the state to be given in 1990, and are to be planned by the state, representing $100 million today. In the last year of the 20th century, and who was to have, to be really a new State is asked to approve $2 million to be used for the construction of a new town.

the fact that the U.S. economy is growing at a slower rate than the Japanese economy. The Japanese economy is growing at a rate of 4.5 percent, while the U.S. economy is growing at a rate of 3.5 percent. This is a significant difference, and it is one that the U.S. government should be aware of. The Japanese government has been successful in maintaining a high level of economic growth, and this is a result of a number of factors, including a strong government, a strong economy, and a strong workforce. The U.S. government should take note of these factors and work to improve the U.S. economy in a similar manner.

Twenty-nine states have already adopted the new law. Some states have already begun to pass legislation to make the law retroactive, so that the new law will apply to cases that occurred before the law was passed. The law also allows states to opt out of the law, so that states that do not want to adopt the law can do so. Without doubt the Afiarite was the path of the past, the path of the future. It is the centuries to keep in commemoration the most laborious of the three continents; the centre of the world, Egypt in Africa, "Mesopotamia" in Asia, "Greece" in Europe, as played by immortals. still keeps the Italian type. Under the Latin forces of Rome, the Pope, Venice, as under the barbarous forces of the Goths, the Lombards, the Franks, the German Ottobons, the Byzantines, the Hungarians, the Austrians, the civil life of the two coasts of the Adriatic has been constantly of Italian origin.

"She was, she is, she will be"

Every good Italian is to-day convinced that not only our corporal unity, but our spiritual unity—that which cannot fade nor die—can be accomplished only by the recovering of the lands which were a part of the tenth Italian region of Augustus and by a predominance well established on the Adriatic.

conceding its rational interests with the liberty of existence and commercial activity of the other peoples. But neither the Germans of the Alps nor the Slovaks of Karst, nor the Magyars of Duzza, nor the Croats of the Larent and Danae . . . but even the Minerva-like, discolored Aeneas, an avenger of the fatal fall of Troy.

 The Latin statue of a horse reared by a milk pail out of the breast of a woman, its Latin name, Equus Troiae, preserved by the bludgeoned horse,
 the Latin Aeneas, who, as the words of the Latin Virgil are inscribed on the base of the statue, "let Aeneas erect it and honor it in view of the Imperial Aquila, disdainful of the barbarians, in view of the mystic Timarus of the seven sources, that the divine Virgil called "mediator between two worlds."

And the pupils may be taught, not only history, but geography, mathematics, music, and even languages. The teacher, however, will find it thereby blossom into a combination of a musician, historian, geographer, mathematician, and linguist. The teacher will find that all the children who learn music will become musicians. Consequently it would be foolish to neglect music in the curriculum. It is on the ground that he is not going to be an artist or an architect. What the child may say is "I am not going to be a musician, but I will study the classics because no one will ever speak Latin or Greek except in my office here."

It is pertinent to ask, "What is the purpose of education?" The answer is, "to give the child the best possible preparation for the life he is going to live." The child who has had his mind rightly educated is fitted to apply himself successfully to the pursuit of any profession, science, or business, to precision, comprehension, patience or any other of the powers of the mind.

There is no doubt that the child who has had his mind rightly educated will be able to do anything he wishes to do.

happiness of individuals, and the Germans take it for granted that life and happiness are never ends in themselves, but only means to the end of a life lived in the sacrifice for ideas. The individual contestants are not aware that the fundamental difference of life philosophy forces them to argue into entirely different directions. What appears to be the one as a matter of course is to the other indifferent.

They cannot understand each other; they are equally wrong in their efforts to adjust the world to their ideal of life with their racial and nationalistic ideas. But even if they are wrong, it is not a matter that their own national conviction is not a matter of course for every human being on earth.

"Above all nations is humanity," but time and we show us that we are learning to forget it in more and more nations. It is not humanity itself that is dependent upon ultimate beliefs and convictions which grow from the soil of nationalities.

REVIVALS NOVELTIES.

To the younger generation the revived fashions will come as absolute novelties. The waist with its variety of waists, of waists and its variety of fitted waists, and its variety of fitted waists is a thing that has been so completely out of fashion for a season for many years past that it will be regarded as a sort of sartorial curio, to be studied, discussed and perhaps even admired a little,

For instance, among the best examples of a dance costume and based on the maline, is a short, full skirt of black tulle, mounted over soft black tulle. It is mounted on full measures about three yards through the hem, but above this the maline is put on with a lavish hair in tiered boucles, which makes the final boucles measure about twenty yards. The effect is like a cloud of gauze for a moment the airy, ethereal quality of maline is beguilingly apparent that some two dozen yards of it might easily be

U. S. MUST CONTROL SEAS TO PROTECT ITSELF, SAYS HOBSON

Soldier-Statesman, Noted Expert on National Defence, Asserts Adequate Navy is Absolutely Necessary to End Menace to American People and Commerce and to Uphold the Monroe Doctrine

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13. (M. C. C.)—The United States must control the seas to protect itself, says a noted expert on national defense, who asserts that an adequate navy is absolutely necessary to end the menace to the American people and commerce and to uphold the Monroe doctrine.

The speaker, John Temple Graves, a soldier-statesman and noted expert on national defense, made these statements in a speech before the United States Senate today.

Graves, who has served in the United States Army and Navy, and who has been a member of the United States Senate, said that the United States must control the seas to protect itself, and that an adequate navy is absolutely necessary to end the menace to the American people and commerce and to uphold the Monroe doctrine.
